Supernatural Horror in Literature Howard Phillips Lovecraft, 1973-01-01 The twentieth century American writer discusses his literary techniques and philosophies along with the history and aesthetics of horror fiction Supernatural Horror in Literature-Original Edition(Annotated) H. P. Lovecraft, 2021-04-28 Supernatural Horror in Literature is a 28 000 word essay by American writer H P Lovecraft surveying the development and achievements of horror fiction as the field stood in the 1920s and 30s The essay was researched and written between November 1925 and May 1927 first published in August 1927 and then revised and expanded during 1933 1934 The terror and horror writer H P Lovecraft s Supernatural Horror in Literature is a long form essay that discusses the history of terror fear and horror embodied in literature Lovecraft s essay begins with a description of the psychology of the human race from its infancy wherein fear is one of the oldest and strongest emotions of mankind and the oldest and strongest kind of fear is fear of the unknown As Lovecraft makes quite clear throughout this essay it is this fear that must be exercised in the fear literature or horror literature as he calls them that is penned by the multitude of writers in this genre Much of the essay is a historical review of the Gothic literary tradition from its origins in the mid eighteenth century through the present day which at the time of writing was the late 1920s Lovecraft touches upon the aristocratic origins of Gothic fiction in Britain the Continental influences that altered the genre as well as the American Gothic transformation that continued to breathe life into the tradition Aside from being an essay highlighting the masters in the field Supernatural Horror in Literature lays down Lovecraft s aesthetic vision for those who write this kind of fiction For Lovecraft despite the fact that the area of the unknown has been steadily contracting for thousands of years an infinite reservoir of mystery still engulfs most of the outer cosmos Yes this was written forty years before man walked on the moon but I believe his statement still holds true Despite all our voyages into outer space the universe is still so vast and unknown to us that this stirs us not just with awe but with fear and terror as well Lovecraft tells us that in The true weird tale a certain atmosphere of breathless and unexplainable dread of outer unknown forces must be present and there must be a hint of that most terrible conception of the human brain a malign and particular suspension or defeat of those fixed laws of Nature which are our only safeguard against the assaults of chaos and the daemons of unplumbed space Lovecraft is saying that the best type of weird fiction reaches beyond Nature s boundaries her fixed orderly laws which by being routine allow us to feel secure and opens up the mind to the suggestion that on the border of the comfort zone provided by Nature there are malignant unknown forces that can trespass at any moment and shatter our sense of security causing us to fully experience the primitive terror and fear of our ancestors when they encountered the unknown Atmosphere Lovecraft writes is the all important thing for the final criterion of authenticity is not the dovetailing of a plot but the creation of a given sensation This belief goes hand in hand with his concern over impressing upon the mind the sensations and emotions of fear and terror in response to experiencing the unknown forces of the world All literature should make readers think and feel but fiction especially is about getting readers to respond emotionally responding to literature through feeling and sensation is fundamental to reading fiction to reacting to events and characters in the tale being told and this holds most true according to Lovecraft for the weird tale and fear literature The one test of the really weird tale is simply this whether of not there be excited in the reader a profound sense of dread and of contact with unknown spheres and powers such as the scratching of outside shapes and entities on the known universe s utmost rim Lovecraft s goal
