Supportive Supervision in Schools is a guide for teachers and administrators who want to create good school climates and a school culture that encourages professional growth and development among staff members It uses a conferencing method to allow teachers administrators and students to discuss and reflect upon what they are doing inside the school building Old ideas about leadership models have not been supported by empirical research and have not influenced the way school leaders and teachers do their work This book points to specific skill areas that need attention It specifies that the creation of supportive environments occurs in weekly individual and group conferences The authors stress the importance of listening and speaking so that messages are not distorted or misunderstood and emphasize trust building Using actual examples this work shows how to construct supportive environments and how to identify and resolve problems Annual Report of the State Commissioner of Common Schools, to the Governor of the State of Ohio, for the Year ... Ohio.
