Supporting The Sky:

The Origins of the World's Mythologies E.J. Michael Witzel, 2012-12-13 This remarkable book is the most ambitious work on mythology since that of the renowned Mircea Eliade who all but single handedly invented the modern study of myth and religion. Focusing on the oldest available texts buttressed by data from archeology, comparative linguistics and human population genetics, Michael Witzel reconstructs a single original African source for our collective myths dating back some 100 000 years. Identifying features shared by this Out of Africa mythology and its northern Eurasian offshoots, Witzel suggests that these common myths recounted by the communities of the African Eve are the earliest evidence of ancient spirituality. Moreover, these common features Witzel shows survive today in all major religions. Witzel's book is an intellectual hand grenade that will doubtless generate considerable excitement and consternation in the scholarly community. Indeed, everyone interested in mythology will want to grapple with Witzel's extraordinary hypothesis about the spirituality of our common ancestors and to understand what it tells us about our modern cultures and the way they are linked at the deepest level.

A Motif-Index of Traditional Polynesian Narratives Bacil F. Kirtley, 2019-09-30 This reference work analyzes and classifies the story themes of Polynesian myths, tales and legends according to an internationally employed system developed by Stith Thompson in his Motif Index of Folk Literature (1955-1958). Thousands of tales including those from almost all of the major original collections from the Polynesian area have been examined and their thematic contents cataloged in this work. In his introduction, the author explains the concept of the motif as a basis for cataloging. He quotes from Professor Thompson's definition of a motif: the smallest element in a tale having the power to persist in tradition for example gods, marvelous creatures, magic objects and certain kinds of incidents. The author believes the function of an index of motifs is to cite bibliographical sources of narratives containing these viable, often irreducible story elements and thus to provide the investigator of specific story ideas with comparative information. The present work is an attempt to survey thoroughly the totality of Polynesian oral tradition and to indicate the distribution and relationships of narrative materials. Not since the publication of Roland B. Dixon's work on Oceanic mythology in 1916 has this been attempted. This index will be an invaluable reference tool for anyone doing research in Oceanic ethnology and folklore.
