Cancer Surgery in the Elderly John D. Spiliotis,Konstantinos Tepetes,2011 The significant advances in medical surgical and social care during the last two decades in the western world have resulted in a considerable prolongation of life expectancy However on the other hand aged populations present a high incidence of neoplasias ideally requiring surgical or multidisciplinary therapeutic strategies The decision making for providing the appropriate surgical care in these patients is a difficult and multivariant task This book examines cancer surgery in elderly patients as well as a need for a more personalised approach and a thorough discussion of their disease treatment and status of life      Minor surgery and bandaging Henry Redwood Wharton,1896      Annals of Surgery ,1893      Principles and Practice of Geriatric Surgery
