The D Days Of Europe:

Forward Air Bases in Europe from D-Day to the Baltic Trevor Stone,2024-01-18 The largely sea borne invasion of Northern France in June 1944 Operation Overlord is acknowledged as one of the key actions which hastened the end of the Second World War The RAF played a vital part in the landings It then supported the subsequent advance of Montgomery's 21st Army and the Allies as a whole through France Belgium Holland and into Germany Following the breakout from the Normandy bridgehead in early August 1944 the RAF's Second Tactical Air Force moved forward in support of the troops occupying a number of temporary airfields as it went The ground support for this operation was complex a situation that was exacerbated by the fact that much of it had to be highly mobile The advance however was rapid and soon ran into problems as the supply lines grew longer by the day The planners had envisaged that capturing the Belgian port of Antwerp would eventually enable them to bring in vitally needed supplies much further north on the Continent Although the city and its port were liberated in September 1944 the port's route to the sea along the River Scheldt was still controlled by German forces It took nearly three months until this was resolved and the port opened for business Until then in the RAF's equivalent of the US Army's famed Red Ball Express it was some 300 miles by road from Normandy with the Second Tactical Air Force largely reliant on the Army for transporting its needs For an air force needing large volumes of fuel and ammunition demand soon began to outpace supply A number of emergency measures were put in place to keep the aircraft operational which saw the RAF resorting to the use of its heavy bombers to fly in supplies Even when Antwerp was up and running supplying the Second Tactical Air Force remained a hand to mouth affair right through until the enemy's surrender in May 1945 In Forward Air Bases in Europe from D Day to the Baltic the author explores the challenges of supporting a mobile air force in those uncertain days as Hitler's forces were retreating to their homeland As the Allies found things can go badly wrong when thinking loses touch with the art of the possible logistics In the end miraculously it worked but it was a close run thing

The D-Day Landing on Gold Beach Andrew Holborn,2015-09-24 The Normandy landings of 6 June 1944 across five sectors of the French coast Utah Omaha Gold Juno and Sword constituted the largest amphibious invasion in history This study analyses in depth the preparations and implementation of the D Day landing on Gold Beach by XXX Corps Historians have tended to dismiss the landing on Gold Beach as straightforward but the evidence points to a different reality Armour supported the infantry landing and prior bombing was intended to weaken German defences however the bulk of the bombing landed too far inland and many craft foundered in difficult conditions at sea It was the tenacity of the assault units and the flexibility of the follow up units which enabled the Gold landing to secure the right flank of the British Army in Normandy Using detailed primary evidence from The National Archives and the Imperial War Museum this volume provides a substantial assessment of the background to the landing on Gold and analyses the events of D Day in the wider context of the Normandy Campaign

Airfields of the D-Day Invasion Air Force Peter Jacobs,2009-10-29 As part of the Aviation Heritage

Trail series the airfields and interest in this book are concentrated in a particular area in this case Kent Surrey East Sussex Essex and Greater London The South east of England emerged from six years of war with a rich diversity of RAF bomber and fighter airfields used by the 2nd Tactical Air Force both before and after the D Day landings Much of this proud legacy is now threatening to disappear However the tourist can combine visits to an abundance of disused and active airfields country houses and museums with countless attractions imaginative locations and broadland and coastal hideaways that have no equal The airfields and other places of interest include Northolt Manston Sculthorp Dunsfold Swanton Morley Hunsdon Gravesend Detling Biggin Hill Kenley Redhill Gatwick Heston Hornchurch Chailey Coolham Horne West Malling and Newchurch This book looks at the history and personalities associated with each base what remains today and explores the favourite local wartime haunts where aircrew and ground crew would have sought well deserved entertainment and relaxation Other museums and places that are relevant will also be described and general directions on how to get them included
