Process Theory Matthias Holweg, Jane Davies, Arnoud De Meyer, Benn Lawson, Roger Schmenner, 2018-02-16 The motivation for this book came out of a shared belief that what passed as theory in operations management OM was all too often inadequate In one respect OM scholars were bending over backwards to make theories from other fields fit our research problems In another questionable assumptions were being used to apply mathematics to OM problems Neither proved a good match with what the authors had observed in practice Successful operations were managed by considerations that were far more straightforward than much of what was being published The authors of this book codify these practical considerations into a set of ten fundamental principles that bring together a century of operations management thinking The authors then apply these principles to important topics such as process design process improvement the supply chain new product development project management environmental sustainability and the interfaces between operations management and other business school disciplines

The Italian and Iberian Influence in Accounting History Michele Bigoni, Warwick Funnell, 2017-10-02 The Italian and Iberian Influence in Accounting History provides compelling evidence of how accounting when conceived of as a technology rather than simply as a tool to increase efficiency can work as a means to sustain power relations in different sites such as the Church the State or the factory This book drawing upon the growing body of work which focuses on Italy and the Iberian Peninsula demonstrates how accounting practices were effective in the subjugation of single individuals or entire populations whether Roman Catholic priests State functionaries inhabitants of conquered lands or workers The effectiveness of accounting as a tool of power is linked to its neutral and technical appearance which makes it difficult for those oppressed and controlled by its practices to oppose it Its adaptability to different organizational contexts as documented in The Italian and Iberian Influence in Accounting History makes it a valuable tool for sustaining existing power relations and reproducing inequalities and exploitation The Italian and Iberian Influence in Accounting History is vital reading for academics and researchers in the fields of accounting accounting history political management and sociology and European history

Small-diameter Trees Used for Chemithermomechanical Pulps Gary C. Myers, 2003 To restore and maintain forest ecosystem health and function in the western interior of the United States many small diameter stems need to be removed from densely stocked stands In general these materials are underutilized Information on the properties of these resources is needed to help forest managers understand when timber sales are a viable option to accomplish ecosystem management objectives Providing proof that this small diameter material yields quality pulp would help increase its value and therefore help remove it from the forest This study examines the acceptability of the small diameter resource as a raw material for high yield chemithermomechanical pulping CTMP which has the potential for improved fiber characteristics and paper strength compared with those of thermomechanical pulping TMP Pulps using CTMP were prepared from lodgepole pine and mixed Douglas fir western larch sawmill residue chips lodgepole pine Douglas fir and western larch submerchantable logs and lodgepole pine Douglas fir and western larch small trees These small diameter pulps were compared with commercially obtained sawmill residue chips of a Douglas fir western larch mixture and lodgepole pine These pulps were also evaluated to see if CTMP improved the properties of the final product compared with products made using TMP Compared with the controls the CTMP prepared from Douglas fir and lodgepole pine small trees and Douglas fir submerchantable logs consumed more electrical energy during pulp preparation and had higher paper strength properties and lower optical properties Also compared with the controls lodgepole pine submerchantable logs consumed about the same electrical energy and had marginal strength properties and higher optical properties Western larch submerchantable logs and small trees had the lowest electrical energy consumption of all pulps tested low strength properties but some of the higher optical properties Western larch submerchantable logs and small trees appear to be unsuitable for CTMP For the majority of the materials CTMP improved the properties of the final product compared with corresponding TMP

To improve on an award winning book poses a major challenge to its authors The authors of this book took the challenge head on by conducting a major research study to determine what exactly the outcomes are that managers at different levels must deliver in contemporary organisations in South Africa and the rest of Africa The findings of this study which dealt with current and near future management issues as well as classical and contemporary thinking about management were used as the blueprint for the updating of this book After placing management in context the authors deal with the knowledge skills and dispositions required of managers to perform the management functions of planning organising leading and controlling in a volatile business world Examples of how the functions are applied in practice are cited throughout the book These examples refer mainly to South African organisations and situations that managers in South Africa and Africa have to deal with to create and sustain a competitive advantage for their organisations The book endeavours to break down the silo effect of seeing the management functions as separate activities This is done by continuously placing the management function at hand in a bigger context This enables learners of management to assess the implications of management decisions on different people processes systems and so on that make up the organisation The Black Diamond ,1918 Aero Digest ,1943 Management Engineering Leon Pratt Alford,1923 Includes section Book reviews Management Review ,1929 Has supplements The Public ,1880 The Control of Trusts John Bates Clark,John Maurice Clark,1912
