Johnpoll, 1994 This is the fourth in an eight volume documentary history of the Communist Party of the United States of America This landmark collection by a noted authority on the American Left is the result of forty years of searching for pamphlets proclamations manifestos party reports and minutes of meetings in bookstores and archives all over the country Facsimilies of the originals are presented whenever possible Brief introductions and critical notes and explanations about the documents are provided with these rare and hard to find materials Volume IV begins with a short introduction describing the documentary history and pointing to important sources of information about the Communist Party of the United States Documents are arranged chronologically and cover a period from 1934 to 1937 when efforts were made to build a United Front These documents include party resolutions platforms and reports and articles by party spokespersons Proceedings, Twenty-fifth Annual Conference, Temple University, Philidelphia, Pennsylvania, 20 - 23 June, 2002 Society of Dance History Scholars (U.S.). Conference, 2002 Florida's Working-class Past Robert Cassanello, Melanie Shell-Weiss, 2009 Viewed from the perspective of the Florida peninsula the essays in this collection explore the history of labor in the United States and Caribbean highlighting the ways this view provides new insights into shifting race and ethnic relations gender roles class definitions and human migration from the Spanish colonial period through the present day Florida provides a unique window onto the transformation of American labor over the past four centuries underscoring the international and national developments that have shaped and been shaped by the lives of working men and women Book jacket A Communist Front at Mid-Century John W. Sherman, 2001 The American Committee for the Protection of Foreign Born played a major role in legal matters pertaining to deportation naturalization and immigration This study provides the first thorough examination of its work from the Depression decade of the 1930s when the committee defended prominent labor activists such as Harry Bridges through the war years and into the 1950s when it served as a legal bulwark for the Communist Party In 1955 the ACPFB itself became a defendant as the pilot case before the Subversive Activities Control Board Cautious and rational the Board reached the correct conclusion that the organization was a Communist Party front Indeed in its fidelity to American communism the ACPFB pursued a political agenda that often violated its stated mandate It not only failed to protect Japanese Americans during World War II but it actually supported their internment During the closing years of the war it attempted to influence ethnic communities for the benefit of the Communist Party False agendas undemocratic internal controls and duplicity drove liberal sympathizers away from the ACPFB by the early 1950s when the pressures of the second Red Scare threatened both it and its host The story of the ACPFB ultimately sheds new light on the nature of American communism itself demonstrating anew its nature as a political movement in pursuit of power A People and a Nation: Since 1865 Mary Beth Norton, 1998
