vrijheidsstrijder verzetsheld of collaborateur slachtoffer of dader Czech Law in Historical Contexts Jan Kuklík, 2015

The legal system of the present day Czech Republic would not be understood properly without sufficient knowledge of its historical roots and evolution. This book deals with the development of Czech law from its initial origins as a form of Slavic law to its current position reflecting the influence of the legal systems of neighbouring countries and that of Roman law. The reader can see how a legal system originally based on custom developed into written and codified law. Czech law was fully dependent upon developments within the Luxemburg Jagiellonian and primarily Habsburg monarchies although some features remained autonomous. The 20th century is particularly important in the development of the Czech state and law of today namely due to the establishment of an independent Czechoslovakia in 1918 and its split in 1992 giving rise to the independent identities of the Czech Republic and the Slovak Republic. It was a century encompassing periods of democratic as well as totalitarian regimes. Political, ideological, economic and social changes stemming from such transformations were projected into and reflected in the system of Czechoslovak and Czech law. It can therefore serve as a case study for researchers interested in the transition of democratic legal systems into totalitarian regimes and vice versa.

A Military History of the Cold War, 1944-1962 Jonathan M. House, 2014-04-28

The Cold War did not culminate in World War III as so many in the 1950s and 1960s feared yet it spawned a host of military engagements that affected millions of lives. This book is the first comprehensive multinational overview of military affairs during the early Cold War beginning with conflicts during World War II in Warsaw, Athens and Saigon and ending with the Cuban Missile Crisis. A major theme of this account is the relationship between government policy and military preparedness and strategy. Author Jonathan M. House tells of generals engaging in policy confrontations with their governments' political leaders among them Anthony Eden, Nikita Khrushchev and John F. Kennedy many of whom made military decisions that hamstrung their own political goals. In the pressure cooker atmosphere of atomic preparedness politicians as well as soldiers seemed instinctively to prefer military solutions to political problems. And national security policies had military implications that took on a life of their own. The invasion of South Korea convinced European policy makers that effective deterrence and containment required building up and maintaining credible forces. Desire to strengthen the North Atlantic alliance militarily accelerated the rearmament of West Germany and the drive for its sovereignty. In addition to examining the major confrontations nuclear and conventional between Washington, Moscow and Beijing including the crises over Berlin and Formosa, House traces often overlooked military operations against the insurgencies of the era such as French efforts in Indochina and Algeria and British struggles in Malaya, Kenya, Cyprus and Aden. Now more than fifty years after the events, House describes understanding the origins and trajectory of the Cold War as as important as ever. By the late 1950s the United States had sent forces to Vietnam and the Middle East setting the stage for future conflicts in both regions. House's account of the complex relationship between diplomacy and military action directly relates to the insurgencies, counterinsurgencies and confrontations that now occupy our attention across the globe.
