Popular Visual Shows 1800-1914 Joe Kember, John Plunkett, 2025-04-23 This book tells the story of the growth of picturegoing as a popular habit between 1800 and 1914 Encouraged by urbanisation and changes in transportation education and leisure patterns the regular and widespread provision of exhibitions and shows became a defining characteristic of cultural life Painted panoramas and dioramas awed with enormous tableaux the stereoscope immersed viewers in a 3D world the many varieties of peepshow promised a marvellously garish experience of patriotic battles gruesome murders and far off places If that was not enough the ever versatile magic lantern projected hundreds of thousands of slides of every imaginable subject from travelogues and temperance tales to illustrated hymns and adaptations of popular fiction Then after 1896 audiences experienced the cinematograph and were able to enjoy film at the many fixed venue cinemas that emerged from around 1908 Moving and projected images were displayed not only in town halls theatres and other large exhibition spaces but also in workhouses schools churches empty shops and fairgrounds Picturegoing in all its variety became a national pastime integrating itself more and more pervasively into the structures of everyday life as the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries progressed Drawing on a wealth of new evidence this book details the shows that were on offer where and what they were the networks and infrastructure they existed within and above all how their audiences experienced them

One-man Show William Alfred Bagley,1945 The Player Piano and the Edwardian Novel Cecilia Bjorken-Nyberg,2016-03-03 In her study of music making in the Edwardian novel Cecilia Bjorken-Nyberg argues that the invention and development of the player piano had a significant effect on the perception performance and appreciation of music during the period In contrast to existing devices for producing music mechanically such as the phonograph and gramophone the player piano granted its operator freedom of individual expression by permitting the performer to modify the tempo Because the traditional piano was the undisputed altar of domestic and highly gendered music making Bjorken-Nyberg suggests the potential for intervention by the mechanical piano's operator had a subversive effect on traditional notions about the status of the musical work itself and about the people who were variously defined by their relationship to it She examines works by Dorothy Richardson E M Forster Henry Handel Richardson Max Beerbohm and Compton Mackenzie among others contending that Edwardian fiction with music as a subject undermined the prevalent antithesis expressed in contemporary music literature between a nineteenth century conception of music as a means of transcendence and the increasing mechanisation of music as represented by the player piano Her timely survey of the player piano in the context of Edwardian commercial and technical discourse draws on a rich array of archival materials to shed new light on the historically conditioned activity of music making in early twentieth century fiction Early Cinema Simon Popple,Joe Kember,2019-07-25 This book introduces the reader to the study of cinema as a series of aesthetic technological cultural ideological and economic debates while exploring new and challenging approaches to the subject It explores the period 1895 to 1914 when cinema established itself as the leading form of visual culture among rapidly expanding global media emerging from a rich tradition of scientific economic entertainment and educational practices and quickly developing as a worldwide institution The Shows of London Richard Daniel Altick,1978 A berserk elephant gunned down in the heart of London a machine for composing Latin hexameters and the original rock band 1841 these are but three of the sights that London curiosity seekers from every walk of life paid to see from the Elizabethan era to the mid Victorian period Examining hundreds of the wonderfully varied exhibitions that culminated in the Crystal Palace of 1851 this generously illustrated book sheds light on a vast and colorful expanse of English social history that has thus far remained wholly unsurveyed Drawing on a wealth of never before used information Mr Altick traces London exhibitions as they evolved from the display of relics in pre Reformation churches through the collections of eighteenth century virtuosi to the first science museums and public art galleries He also narrates for the first time the history of the panorama and diorama as an influential genre of nineteenth century popular art At every point the London shows are linked to the prevailing intellectual atmosphere and to trends in public taste The material is fresh and fascinating the range from freaks to popular science from the funeral effigies at Westminster Abbey to Madame Tussaud's waxworks impressive Like the exhibitions that best served the Victorian ideal of mass culture The Shows of London is both entertaining and informative Obituaries in the Performing Arts, 2019 Harris M.
