Steptoe and the Indian Wars Ron McFarland,2016-02-03 Lieutenant Colonel Edward J Steptoe's escape from encirclement by 1 000 Northern Plateau Indians in 1858 is a familiar story from the Indian Wars Yet the details of the Battle of Pine Creek or Tohotonimme and its aftermath remain subjects of debate Outnumbered six to one Steptoe's 164 troops slipped away in the night Newspapers called it a disaster A few weeks later Colonel George Wright avenged the defeat and Steptoe who had suffered a stroke months before the battle lived his final years in relative obscurity in his native Virginia as the Civil War erupted This definitive biography of Steptoe chronicles the career of a field officer who served nearly four years in the Second Seminole War won commendation for gallantry during the Mexican War performed admirably though controversially in the Utah Territory undertook construction of forts at Walla Walla in the newly defined Washington Territory and engaged with various tribes throughout his deployments His personal letters reveal a thoughtful sensitive commander who came to question his choice of career even before his final battle Fighting Colonialism with Hegemonic Culture Maureen Trudelle Schwarz,2013-01-01 Explores how American Indian businesses and organizations are taking on images that were designed to oppress them How and why do American Indians appropriate images of Indians for their own purposes How do these representatives promote and sometimes challenge sovereignty for indigenous people locally and nationally American Indians have recently taken on a new relationship with the hegemonic culture designed to oppress them Rather than protesting it they are earmarking images from it and using them for their own ends This provocative book adds an interesting twist and nuance to our understanding of the five hundred year interchange between American Indians and others A host of examples of how American Indians use the so called White Man's Indian reveal the key images and issues selected most frequently by the representatives of Native organizations or Native owned businesses in the late twentieth and early twenty first centuries to appropriate Indianness
