Navigating Technology and National Security Justin Sherman, 2025-11-25 An expertly written guide to the regulatory maze governing the intersection of technology and national security. In Navigating Technology and National Security The Intersection of CFIUS Team Telecom AI Controls and Other Regulations cybersecurity and technology policy researcher consultant and professor Justin Sherman delivers a comprehensive explanation of US tech and national security regulations and review programs. The book is an accessible and thoroughly researched analysis of important regulatory regimes that govern sensitive and emerging technologies and data used in the United States and around the world including Committee on Foreign Investment in the US Export Controls Team Telecom ICT Supply Chain Program Cloud Know Your Customer Program Bulk Data Transfer Review Program Outbound Investment Screening. The author concisely describes the history of each program before explaining its legal basis like the IEEPA and covering relevant case studies on public enforcement actions and investigations. He also offers insightful and original analysis on the major strengths and weaknesses of each program. The book also includes Emerging issues and concrete takeaways for attorneys technologists investors policymakers and other stakeholders. Discussions of the fast moving threat space. Potential ways that the United States might stumble or succeed in the implementation of new tech review programs and regulations moving forward. An incisive and up to date exploration of an increasingly important area. Navigating Technology and National Security is a must read for lawyers, policymakers, threat analysts, hedge fund and venture capital professionals, technologists and anyone else required to navigate the regulatory maze that governs the intersection of national security and tech.

I argue that neoinstitutionalist organization theory contributes to an explanation of these organizations which coordinate efforts to limit the spread of weapons related technologies. The neoinstitutionalist approach claims that organizational structures are often not selected for maximal effectiveness at tasks such as controlling weapons related exports Rather they are selected for their fit with norms shared within communities of organizations that interact regularly or share common tasks The dissertation adapts and applies this literature to the subject of export control cooperation through process tracing case studies of export control regimes such as CoCom and the Wassenaar Arrangement I argue that a transnational community of organizations or organizational field has developed in the issue area of nonproliferation export controls While extant theories of International Relations help explain the origins of international export control cooperation they do not explain the extent or form such efforts have taken today Shared norms in this issue area and copying of organizations perceived as successful explain the growth and standardization of multilateral nonproliferation regimes and international export control practices These factors are highlighted by the sociological theories I draw upon The case studies are constructed from archival data interviews with policy makers trade literature and secondary sources American Defense Annual, 1988-1989 Joseph J.
