Playing a Bold Game Nicholas D. Carter, Nick Carter, 1899      Cable theft on the railway Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Transport Committee, 2012-01-26 Last year over 35 000 journeys were delayed or cancelled due to cable theft which also cost Network Rail more than 16m Cable theft from the rail network is part of an increase in metal theft across the country made easy by the way in which stolen metal can be sold to scrap metal dealers We need urgent reform to improve the audit trail generated by the scrap metal industry so that criminals selling stolen metal into the trade can be identified much more easily The Committee calls for additional powers for the police to help them in their efforts to combat metal theft The Government should introduce a new offence of aggravated trespass on the railway to help deter cable thieves The British Transport Police should be given new powers so that officers can enter both registered and unregistered scrap metal sites along with additional resources to carry out their enforcement work The Committee also recommends i The Scrap Metal Dealers Act 1964 should be reformed so that individuals selling metal have to provide proof of their identity before a transaction can take place ii the Government should test the use of cashless trading in the scrap metal industry iii there should be greater clarity around compensation arrangements so that train operators cannot profit from disruption caused by cable theft iv Network Rail should develop a costed programme of measures to make cable more difficult to steal and v the Department for Transport should update the Committee on work being undertaken to help passengers stranded on trains near stations to complete their journey
