Green,2022-12-01 In the early 1980s I began to visit South Wales on a regular basis to photograph the railway scene At that time the collieries and steelworks were generating a lot of rail traffic with Class 37 diesels being the usual motive power Passenger trains were in the hands of Class 47s and 37s while Peaks and Class 50s would also appear on occasion HSTs DMUs Sprinters and Pacers were of course also common As time went on collieries closed and the coal traffic reduced but there always something new and interesting Rugby Internationals at Cardiff regularly produced a number of special trains which arrived from various parts of the country often bringing interesting motive power to the Welsh capital The Class 37s were slowly replaced by Class 56s and later Class 60s on many duties in South Wales but the Rhymney Valley saw Class 37 diesels working passenger trains into the twenty first century and on Rugby International days privately owned Class 50s were also used on occasion I also visited the Central Wales line a number of times and particularly enjoyed the time I spent at the small country stations before the semaphore signals were replaced This book contains a selection of photographs taken in the latter part of the 20th and in the very early 21st Century covering the railways of South Wales and the Welsh section of the Central Wales line A few photographs of the principal heritage railways in more recent times are also included Lost Lines of Wales Jamie Green,2021-06-24 Having covered the southern section of the Central Wales Line and its branches in Swansea to Llandovery this volume traces the line from Llandovery to Craven Arms where it met the North its country stations signal boxes and heavy goods and express trains largely replaced by simple request stops and single car diesel units The Central Wales Line Tom Clift,1982 The Central Wales Line Audrey Doughty,1997 Worrall's Directory of South Wales, Etc Directories. - Wales, South,1875 Traffic Cases Great Britain.
