The Making of Eastern Europe Philip Longworth,1992-08-18 Why has the collapse of Communism resulted in so much disappointment for the hopeful millions of Eastern Europe In this original and provocative book Philip Longworth argues that their predicament is only partly due to the imposition of the Soviet system but rather they are the heirs of misfortune which dates back centuries In exploring the origins of current problems this sweeping history ranges from the present day to the time of Constantine the Great from the Urals to the Mediterranean and the Baltic and emphasises culture and society as well as politics and economics The resulting analysis provides the crucial and until now much needed long term background to the difficulties now facing Eastern Europe This new perspective and the insight it brings will improve our understanding of this complex region and be of immense value to all who want to understand Eastern Europe s past and present

Eastern Europe Since 1945 Geoff Swain,Nigel Swain,2003

Fully updated to take account of new material and events since the publication of the second edition this new edition of Geoffrey and Nigel Swain's textbook traces the different patterns emerging in Central Europe and the Balkans. The authors draw a distinction between those countries where democracy and pluralism appear firmly established since the collapse of the Soviet Union and those where they do not. In order to have contemporary relevance the history of modern Europe must now include the rise and subsequent demise of the east west division of the continent

The Making of Central and Eastern Europe, by Francis Dvornik ... František Dvorník, 1949 The Making of Central and Eastern Europe

František Dvorník (Historiker, Theologe), 1949 Philosophy, Society and the Cunning of History in Eastern Europe Costica Bradatan, 2013-09-13 Philosophy Society and the Cunning of History in Eastern Europe charts the intellectual landscape of twentieth century East Central Europe under the unifying theme of precariousness as a mode of historical existence. Caught between empires often marked by catastrophic historic events and grand political failures the countries of East Central Europe have for a long time developed a certain intellectual self representation a culture that not only helps them make some sense of such misfortunes but also protects them somehow from a collapse into nihilism. An interdisciplinary study of this sophisticated culture of survival and endurance has been long overdue. Not only is it charming and worth studying in its own right but with the re integration of the new Europe into the old one and the emergence on the Western European intellectual scene of many authors from the East such a culture will also shape the European mind of the 21st century. This volume decodes and explores this culture of precariousness from the complementary angles of philosophy political theory intellectual history and literary studies. Expert contributors look at a wide range of topics from philosophical martyrdom to collective suffering to geographical fatalism and explore the works of key authors in the field including Cioran, Kołkowski, Kertész, Bauman and iek. This book was originally published as a special issue of Angelaki: The Journal of the Theoretical Humanities.

The Soviet Union and Eastern Europe in the Global Economy Marie Lavigne, 1992-07-09

The Soviet Union and Eastern Europe are moving away from a centrally planned economy toward integration within the global economy. How did this transition begin? Is this an aim which all the countries can afford? What conditions are to be met so that the countries will achieve a level of development comparable with the average level of their industrial partners? In this 1992 volume leading international political economists from both the East and West provide an in depth analysis of these questions. The contributors assess how the transition to the market requires liberalizing foreign trade, introducing convertibility and transforming property structures all of which are also part of the ongoing domestic reform. They also examine how these countries overcome their development lag and implement a restructuring policy.
