Solar Crisis:

Solar, Wind and Land Troy A. Rule, 2014-09-19 The global demand for clean renewable energy has rapidly expanded in recent years and will likely continue to escalate in the decades to come Wind and solar energy systems often require large quantities of land and airspace so their growing presence is generating a diverse array of new and challenging land use conflicts Wind turbines can create noise disrupt views or radar systems and threaten bird populations Solar energy projects can cause glare effects impact pristine wilderness areas and deplete water resources Developers must successfully navigate through these and myriad other land use conflicts to complete any renewable energy project Policymakers are increasingly confronted with disputes over these issues and are searching for rules to effectively govern them Tailoring innovative policies to address the unique conflicts that arise in the context of renewable energy development is crucial to ensuring that the law facilitates rather than impedes the continued growth of this important industry This book describes and analyses the property and land use policy questions that most commonly arise in renewable energy development Although it focuses primarily on issues that have arisen within the United States the book's discussions of international policy differences and critiques of existing approaches make it a valuable resource for anyone exploring these issues in a professional setting anywhere in the world

Low-tech Magazine 2012-2018 Kris De Decker, 2019-03-18 Low tech Magazine underscores the potential of past and often forgotten technologies and how they can inform sustainable energy practices Sometimes past technologies can be copied without any changes More often interesting possibilities arise when older technology is combined with new knowledge and new materials or when past concepts and traditional knowledge are applied to modern technology Inspiration is also to be found in the so called developing world where resource constraints often lead to inventive low tech solutions

The Energy Crisis, Conservation and Solar Harvey Rose, Amy Pinkerton, 1981 Lab Coats in Hollywood David A. Kirby, 2011 How science consultants make movie science plausible in films ranging from 2001 A Space Odyssey to Finding Nemo Stanley Kubrick's 2001 A Space Odyssey released in 1968 is perhaps the most scientifically accurate film ever produced The film presented such a plausible realistic vision of space flight that many moon hoax proponents believe that Kubrick staged the 1969 moon landing using the same studios and techniques Kubrick's scientific verisimilitude in 2001 came courtesy of his science consultants including two former NASA scientists and the more than sixty five companies research organizations and government agencies that offered technical advice Although most filmmakers don't consult experts as extensively as Kubrick did films ranging from A Beautiful Mind and Contact to Finding Nemo and The Hulk have achieved some degree of scientific credibility because of science consultants In Lab Coats in Hollywood David Kirby examines the interaction of science and cinema how science consultants make movie science plausible how filmmakers negotiate scientific accuracy within production constraints and how movies affect popular perceptions of science Drawing on interviews and archival material Kirby examines such science consulting tasks as fact checking and shaping visual iconography Kirby finds that cinema can influence science as well Depictions of science in popular films can promote research agendas stimulate technological development and even stir citizens into political action Solar Crisis, The
