Griffith Conrad Evans, 1918 The Cambridge Colloquium Griffith Conrad Evans, Oswald Veblen, 1918-12-31 The 1916 colloquium of the American Mathematical Society was held as part of the summer meeting that took place in Boston Two sets of lectures were presented Functionals and their Applications Selected Topics including Integral Equations by G C Evans and Analysis Situs by Oswald Veblen The lectures by Evans are devoted to functionals and their applications By a functional the author means a function on an infinite dimensional space usually a space of functions or of curves on the plane or in 3 space etc The first lecture deals with general considerations of functionals continuity derivatives variational equations etc The main topic of the second lecture is the study of complex valued functionals such as integrals of complex functions in several variables The third lecture is devoted to the study of what is called implicit functional equations This study requires in particular the development of the notion of a Frechet differential which is also discussed in this lecture The fourth lecture contains generalizations of the Bocher approach to the treatment of the Laplace equation where a harmonic function is characterized as a function with no flux Evans terminology through every circle on the plane Finally the fifth lecture gives an account of various generalizations of the theory of integral equations Analysis situs is the name used by Poincare when he was creating at the end of the 19th century the area of mathematics known today as topology Veblen s lectures forming the second part of the book contain what is probably the first text where Poincare s results and ideas were summarized and an attempt to systematically present this difficult new area of mathematics was made This is how S Lefschetz had described in his 1924 review of the book the experience of a beginner attracted by the fascinating and difficult field of analysis situs Difficult reasonings beset him at every step an unfriendly notation did not help matters to all of which must be added most baffling of all the breakdown of geometric intuition precisely when most needed No royal road can be created through this dense forest but a good and thoroughgoing treatment of fundamentals notation terminology may smooth the path somewhat And this and much more we find supplied by Veblen s Lectures Of the two streams of topology existing at that time point set topology and combinatorial topology it is the latter to which Veblen s book is almost totally devoted The first four chapters present in detail the notion and properties introduced by Poincare of the incidence matrix of a cell decomposition of a manifold The main goal of the author is to show how to reproduce main topological invariants of a manifold and their relations in terms of the incidence matrix The last fifth chapter contains what Lefschetz called an excellent summary of several important questions homotopy and isotopy theory of the indicatrix a fairly ample treatment of the group of a manifold finally a bird s eye view of what is known and not known mostly the latter on three dimensional manifolds The
