The Cambridge Murders Adam BROOME (pseud.),1936      The Cambridge Murders Glyn Daniel,2014-11-13 Fisher College at Cambridge lies between St John s and Trinity Colleges a fact which may escape those who visit Cambridge trusting only to the official guide books and seeing no more than a gap of twenty feet between those two great houses of learning Here one morning the bedmakers and gyps clamouring for admission on the last day of term were admitted to find lying across their path the body of one of the College porters The murder of the porter begins a mystery which is deepened when it is found that the unpopular Dean of the college is missing The search for the murderer is conducted in part by the police and partly by the Vice President of Fisher College Sir Richard Cherrington an eminent but slightly eccentric archaeologist with a penchant for amateur detection The Cambridge Murders is a story of murder at high table of death and detection amid good living and scholarship

Mitchell,2021-09-15 This book goes beyond other police leadership books to teach practitioners how to think about policing in a structured way that synthesizes criminological theory statistics research design applied research and what works and what doesn't in policing into Mental Models A Mental Model is a representation of how something works Using a Mental Model framework to simplify complex concepts readers will take away an in depth understanding of how cognitive biases affect our ability to understand and interpret data what empirical research says about effective police interventions how statistical data should be structured for management meetings and how to evaluate interventions for efficiency and effectiveness While evidence based practice is critical to advancing the police profession it is limited in scope and is only part of what is necessary to support sustainable change in policing Policing requires a scientifically based framework to understand and interpret data in a way that minimizes cognitive bias to allow for better responses to complex problems Data and research have advanced so rapidly in the last several decades that it is difficult for even the most ambitious of police leaders to keep pace The Twenty one Mental Models were synthesized to create a framework for any police public or community leader to better understand how cognitive bias contributes to misunderstanding data and gives the reader the tools to overcome those biases to better serve their communities The book is intended for a wide range of audiences including law enforcement and community leaders scholars and policy experts who specialize in policing students of criminal justice organizations and management reporters and journalists individuals who aspire to police careers and citizen consumers of information about policing Anyone who is going to make decisions about their communities based on data has a responsibility to be numerate and this book Twenty one Mental Models That Can Change Policing A Framework For Using Data and Research For Overcoming Cognitive Bias will help you become just that

Narrative Fiction and Death Sabine Köllmann, 2023-09-29 Narrative Fiction and Death Dying Imagined offers a new perspective on the study of death in literature It focuses on narrative fiction that conveys the experience of dying from the internal perspective of a dying protagonist Writers from Victor Hugo in the early 1800s to Elif Shafak in the present day have imagined the unknowable final moments on the threshold to death This literary study examines the wide range of narrative strategies used to evoke the transition from life to death and to what effect revealing not only each writer's unique way of representing the dying experience the comparative reading also finds common concerns in these texts and uncovers surprising parallels and unexplored intertextual relations between works across time and space that will interest comparatists as well as specialists in the literatures discussed Students of individual texts examined here will benefit from detailed analyses of these works The fictional evocation of dying addresses our basic human fears offering catharsis consolation and a greater cognitive and emotional understanding of that unknowable experience Presented in an engaging and highly readable manner this study argues for literature's potential to challenge our assumptions about the end of life and change our approach to dying an aspect that will interest students and researchers of the health humanities palliative caregivers and all those interested in questions of the end of life
