The Building Of Consensus In Egypt's Transition Process:

The Building of Consensus in Egypt's Transition Process Noha El-Mikawy, 1999 In this rich and thought provoking study Noha el Mikawy explores the changes that have been occurring in Egypt's political system over the past thirty years three very important decades in the country's transition from authoritarian rule to democracy By focussing on consensus building as analytically central to the transition process el Mikawy has picked up an original and very fruitful vein in the theoretical debate about the politics of transition and democracy Her account of the inner workings and ideological divisions among the country's major political parties provides a wealth of detail for the 1980s and early 1990s nowhere else to be found This book is likely to make a breakthrough in the conspiracy of silence hitherto affecting the inclusion of the Egyptian experience as an empirical reference point in the theoretical literature of transition

Institutional Reform & Economic Development in Egypt Noha El-Mikawy, Heba Ahmad Handoussa, 2002 This pioneering volume addresses the key issue of the relationship between politics and economics with special reference to Egypt in the 1990s Drawing on the expertise of both political scientists and economists it assembles an impressive array of data including detailed opinion surveys to demonstrate conclusively that political and economic reform need to proceed in tandem In an insightful analysis of the Egyptian legislature the authors draw attention to a fundamental aspect of institutional reform namely the informational and knowledge base of legislation as well as the organizational infrastructure of policy formulation As regards Egypt's economic performance since the early 1990s they focus in particular on impediments to improved export performance and offer solid recommendations as to how such obstacles might be overcome This stimulating study makes a timely contribution to political economic analysis which may at the same time prove helpful in the formulation of new policies

Egypt and the Contradictions of Liberalism Dalia F. Fahmy, Daanish Faruqi, 2017-01-05 The liberatory sentiment that stoked the Arab Spring and saw the ousting of long time Egyptian dictator Hosni Mubarak seems a distant memory Democratically elected president Mohammad Morsi lasted only a year before he was forced from power to be replaced by precisely the kind of authoritarianism protestors had been railing against in January 2011. Paradoxically this turn of events was encouraged by the same liberal activists and intelligentsia who had pushed for progressive reform under Mubarak. This volume analyses how such a key contingent of Egyptian liberals came to develop outright illiberal tendencies. Interdisciplinary in scope it brings together experts in Middle East studies, political science, philosophy, Islamic studies and law to address the failure of Egyptian liberalism in a holistic manner from liberalism's relationship with the state to its role in cultivating civil society to the role of Islam and secularism in the cultivation of liberalism. A work of impeccable scholarly rigour, Egypt and the Contradictions of Liberalism reveals the contemporary ramifications of the state of liberalism in Egypt. The Middle East, 1999.

Contentious Politics in the Middle East Holger Albrecht, 2010. A fine collection of empirically rich and thoughtful studies on a topic of considerable interest. Its fine grained analyses of individual countries, organizations and episodes of regime opposition, interaction make an important contribution to our understanding of authoritarian rule in the Middle East and beyond. David Waldner, University of Virginia. Clearly addresses a gap in the literature on Middle East politics by focusing on various oppositions within different countries of the region. Deepens understanding of the concepts of opposition and contentious politics within authoritarian political systems. Nicola Pratt, University of Warwick. Scholarship examining the governments in the Middle East and North Africa rarely focuses on opposition movements since those countries tend to be ruled by a centralized, often authoritarian, government. However, even in an oppressive state there are civil society and oppositional forces at work. The contributors to Contentious Politics in the Middle East reveal how such forces emerge and are manifested in nondemocratic states across the region. In most cases the essays offer a comparative perspective, highlighting similarities across political borders. Providing historical context for current events, they examine the sociopolitical situations in Egypt, Syria, Jordan, Kuwait, Bahrain, Iraq, Morocco, Tunisia, Lebanon and Algeria and analyze the role of Islam in Arab states' governments and in the opposition movements to them. They also demonstrate that not all opposition forces propose the overthrow of authority and point out the various forms opposition takes in societies that leave little room for political activism. The contributors to the volume are drawn from countries across three continents and bring backgrounds in political science, conflict resolution and history. Challenging the assertion that state-society relations are limited to coercive top-down arrangements in authoritarian regimes, the book will inspire debate on the topic of contentious political participation within the region as well as in similar settings throughout the world.

Political Participation in the Middle East Ellen Lust, 2008. Political participation in authoritarian regimes is usually considered insignificant or important only insofar as it promotes democracy. Turning this common wisdom on its head, Political Participation in the Middle East demonstrates the vitality, variety and significance of political activism across the MENA region. Through an in-depth exploration of seven countries, the authors address how formal and informal political institutions create opportunities for participation in venues as varied as trade unions, civic associations, political parties and elections And without losing sight of the fact that authoritarian regimes manipulate participation to reinforce their rule they reveal ways in which citizens do benefit by influencing decision making for example or obtaining state resources An engaging read for scholars and students this work vividly illustrates how citizens matter in the politics of authoritarian regimes

Historical Dictionary of Egypt Arthur Goldschmidt,Robert Johnston,2003-10-22 Directed at nonspecialists and specialists alike this book provides factual information about Egypt since 1760 with special emphasis on the modern period together with appropriate historical interpretation It stresses people events and institutions relevant to Egypt s political economic social intellectual and cultural development

Arab Middle Class ,2014 The present report studies the Arab middle class an important social group that is relatively little understood despite the fundamental role it has played in shaping the economic and social development outcomes in the Arab region This report contributes to the ongoing debate about factors that led to the Arab uprisings and the difficult transitions to democracy that followed the departure of long standing dictators by marking elements influencing middle class allegiances specifically those that weakened their well established alliances with ruling regimes The report is motivated by the conviction on the basis of past development experiences that a new Arab development model can only succeed if the middle class plays a lead role in designing and implementing processes of economic transformation and political transition Studying the middle class is therefore crucial to interpreting the past understanding the present and reading the potential future development prospects of the Arab region This report introduces three novel approaches aimed at charting a path for sustaining empowering and enlarging the middle class The first is related to the measurement of the middle class based on a definition that takes into account both the quantity and quality of their consumption expenditure The second relates to the profiling of the Arab middle class using variables such as education employment and mobility in addition to multidimensional poverty The third novel approach lies in using these results to provide a narrative of the socioeconomic context of the decade leading up to the uprisings from a middle class perspective The report concludes that the empowerment of the Arab middle class could pave a way out of the current development and governance debacle towards an Arab developmental State Publisher s description

Institutional Development and Transition Asya El-Meehy,2013 Have Arab uprisings opened space for deeper grassroots driven decentralization reforms in the region What are the optimum designs sequencing and models of decentralization for countries in political transition While political discourse in the region uniformly emphasizes reforming

State institutions decentralization reform agendas have unfolded along contrasting trajectories across Arab transition countries Both contextual and historical dynamics seem to shape visions for the orientation and pace of decentralization reforms as well as the empirical feasibility of shifting power relations among the various tiers of State administration Drawing on findings from field research and recent analyses this study argues that uprisings have created stronger momentum for revisiting the question of decentralization reforms in Libya and Yemen where the very nature of the State is being redefined compared to the cases of Egypt and Tunisia where all stakeholders agree on preserving the unitary State model In the latter cases while there is evidence that new advocacy movements focused on reforming local government structures have emerged they have thus far remained elite led Grassroots activism at local community levels has served to empower new actors who in some cases have been successful at extracting concessions from local authorities These efforts however predominantly focus on improving access to public services within the existing context of centralized State structures and seem often to have failed to gain the trust of local community members as potential partners in local governance Building on focus group discussions among working class residents in Greater Cairo and on interviews with Egyptian political elites the study highlights an emerging critical gap between youth expectations and on the other hand the envisioned plans of the political elite While youth are more likely to demand deeper reforms across all three dimensions of decentralization administrative fiscal and political political elites disagree not only on which particular dimension s of reforms should be implemented but also on the urgency of decentralization during early phases of political transformation The latter s wide range of views reflect deep concerns over political capture by traditional elites weakness of political parties as well as potentially detrimental impacts of reforms on State capacity and the nation State s territorial integrity The study concludes by drawing lessons from France s successful contract based record of decentralization and presents policy recommendations for countries that have emerged from the Arab uprisings with relatively strong centralized State structures and cohesive national identities Publisher s description
