professionalism that businesses can expect from advisors consultants and specialists as compared to patient expectations from clinical members of a medical healthcare service It concludes that it may be time to address concerns before a business healthcare service can be recognised as fully available and professional

Mastering The Business of Medicine & The Doctor-Patient Relationship Robert A Kayal Faaos Faahks, MD,2024-05-22 I have wanted to write a book about the business of medicine for a long time now Why you ask The reason is because I have seen so many doctors give up switch careers or sell out to large conglomerates of health care employers because the physicians were not able to succeed on their own This has been so hard for me to watch Unfortunately the business of medicine is not taught in or part of medical school curriculums As such these poor health care providers just went into the profession blind They had no idea what to expect There was no guidance or direction provided during their training There was just ignorance and naivet when they came out into the world They were left to figure it out for themselves and just told to flap their wings and fly Well I want to change that I think it should be In fact I think it must be and I m on a mission to make it happen In medical school there are no business courses about etiquette people skills public speaking finance accounting billing collections accounts receivable accounts payable banking wealth management money management budgeting investments economics business management human resources etc All these courses should be required My goal is to make this book mandatory reading material on every health care provider s educational curriculum It will not only teach you how to succeed in the business of medicine but in the specialty of medicine as well
