Report of the British Economic Mission to the Far East Great Britain. Economic Mission to the Far East,Sir Ernest Thompson,1931 Reading Colonies—Property and Control of the British Far East R.B.E. Price,2017-12-01 By 1945 everywhere one looked in the Far East the British Empire was being openly questioned or was failing outright Yet in the previous century the British had been the pre eminent imperial power from Weihaiwei to North Borneo Reading Colonies Property and Control of the British Far East investigates how the British held on for so long Rent control legislation and other measures of property law such as land improvement opportunities are nominated as key tools used to frustrate decolonization in most Eastern colonies British colonial administrations tried long and hard to inhibit the dialectical discord between their colonial hierarchism and local forms of nationalism with the prompts and plaudits of property policy In cases where indigenous landlordism masqueraded as patriotism independence came quickly Ceylon and Burma Where public housing established itself as a key post war plank of social policy freedom from British rule was a more gradual affair British Malaya and Hong Kong This study concludes that British colonial regimes did not offer a share of their industrial modernity to stay at the apex of political power but readily adjusted old style landlordism to keep nationalist usurpers at bay

Britain and East Asia 1933-1937 Ann Trotter,1975-04-24 This is a study of Britain s attempts after the Manchurian crisis of 1931 3 to redefine her aims in east Asia and to develop a viable policy of friendship towards China and goodwill towards Japan The author emphasizes the part played by economic problems pacifist sentiment and the failure of the disarmament conference in influencing the thinking of policy makers and discusses Britain s dilemma of trying to provide for defence in Europe while maintaining the facade of an imperial power Although Britain did not seek to challenge Japan s China policy she was not prepared to give Japan a free hand in China or to grant concessions elsewhere In practice British attempts to rehabilitate China appeared as a challenge to Japan This was particularly true of the Leith Ross mission in China in 1935 which is considered in detail in this book British Propaganda and Wars of Empire Christopher Tuck,2016-04-15 Influence is a slippery concept yet one of tremendous relevance for those wishing to understand global politics From debates on the changing sources of power in the international system through to analyses of its value as an alternative to the active use of force as a policy instrument influence has become a recurrent theme in discussions of international relations and foreign policy In order to provide a better understanding of the multifaceted and shifting nature of influence this volume looks at how the British government employed various forms of pressure and persuasion to achieve its goals across the twentieth century By focusing on Britain a global actor with great power objectives but declining physical means the collection provides a wide range of case studies to assess how influence was brought to bear on a wide array of non western cultures and societies It furthermore allows for an assessment of just how effective or ineffective British efforts were at influencing non Western targets over a hundred years of operations By shedding important light on the efficacy of British efforts to sustain and advance its interests in the twentieth century the volume will be of interest not only to historians but to anyone interested in contemporary problems surrounding the operation of influence as a foreign policy tool The Peoples and Politics of the Far East Henry Norman,2017-11-26 Excerpt from The Peoples and Politics of the Far East Travels and Studies in the British French Spanish and Portuguese Colonies Siberia China Japan Korea Siam and Malaya This book is the result of nearly four years of travel and study in the countries and colonies of which it treats I have described and discussed no place that I did not visit and in every one I remained long enough and was fortunate enough in learning the views and experiences of the local authorities and best informed residents to make sure at any rate that I was not misled into mere hasty impressions If I appear to present some of my conclusions with excessive confidence this fault is to be explained and I trust excused first by my conviction of the importance to Great Britain of the issues involved and second by my faith in the accuracy and wisdom of my many informants About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Great Britain and the East ... ,1917
