Malouf, 2009 Despite their prominent place in twentieth century literature in English novelists and poets from Ireland and the anglophone Caribbean have long been separated by literary histories in which they are either representing a local nationalist tradition or functioning within an international movement such as modernism or postcolonialism Redressing this either or framework Michael Malouf recognizes an integral history shared by these two poetic and political traditions arising from their common transatlantic history in relation to the British empire and their common spaces of migration in New York and London In examining these cross cultural exchanges he reconsiders our conception of transatlantic space and offers a revised conception of solidarity that is much more diverse than previously assumed Offering a new narrative of cultural influence and performance this work specifically demonstrates the formative role of Irish nationalist discourse expressed in the works of Eamon de Valera George Bernard Shaw and James Joyce in the transnational political and aesthetic self fashioning of three influential Caribbean figures Marcus Garvey Claude McKay and Derek Walcott It provides both an innovative historical and literary methodology for reading cross cultural relations between two postcolonial cultures and a literary and political history that can account for the recent diversity of the field of anglophone world literature New West Indian guide ,1992 Books in Print ,1994 Handbook of Latin American Studies, Vol. 51 ,1992 Contains records describing books book chapters articles and conference papers published in the field of Latin American studies Coverage includes relevant books as well as over 800 social science and 550 humanities journals and volumes of conference proceedings Most records include abstracts with evaluations Caribbean Review ,1988
