The Community Of Man:

Menkiti on Community and Becoming a Person Edwin Etieyibo, Polycarp Ikuenobe, 2020-07-24 Ifeanyi Menkiti's articulation of an African conception of personhood especially in Person and Community in African Traditional Thought has become very influential in African philosophy. Menkiti on Community and Becoming a Person contributes to the debate in African philosophy on personhood by engaging with various aspects of Menkiti's account of person and community. The contributors examine this account in relation to themes such as individualism, communalism, rights, individual liberty, moral agency, communal ethics, education, state and nation building, elderhood and ancestorhood. Through these themes, this book edited by Edwin Etieyibo and Polycarp Ikuenobe shows that Menkiti's account of personhood in the context of community is both fundamental and foundational to epistemological, metaphysical, logical, ethical, legal, social and political issues in African thought systems.

Flattering the Demos Marlene K. Sokolon, Travis D. Smith, 2018-10-31 This volume brings together reflections on the relationship between politics and storytelling especially within the democratic context. Examples are drawn from the ancient and modern worlds from classical Greek tragedy and Shakespeare to television, science fiction and comic books in order to examine the relationship between the philosophical and the poetical. As a political phenomenon, storytelling is used to confirm the prejudices and uphold the principles that prevail within the culture that produces it while also providing a means for sparking a criticism of that culture from within. What role should literature play in educating a population especially as regards one's civic responsibilities and relationship to the political regime and how does it compete with or complement rational inquiry in providing that education? What observable effects does storytelling in fact tend to have especially among democratic peoples and what effects does it have on their political identities, viewpoints, commitments and behavior? Which passions does it stoke: our hopes or our fears, our suspicions or our loyalties? Can storytelling in democratic times offer resistance to the logic and momentum of democratization or does it only reliably propel it further forward? Does democratic literature only cater to the satisfaction of personal appetites or can it ennoble people so that they are more apt to fulfill their responsibilities to each other as moral agents and fellow citizens? This volume takes diverse approaches to addressing questions like these.

Engaging women and men in community-based resource management processes in Solomon Islands Schwarz, A., James, A., Teioli, H.M., Cohen, P., Morgan, M., 2014-12-08 Gender equity refers to the process of being fair to women and men in order that women and men can equally access opportunities and life choices regardless of their sex. It has been proposed that local and national management policies and practices can be more effective if they are more gender equitable and better consider the differences in how men and women participate in natural resource use and in the community taking into account their potentially different goals The CGIAR Research Program on Aquatic Agricultural Systems AAS led by WorldFish aims to deliver increased food security and income for the millions of people living in and depending on aquatic agricultural systems and intends to take a gender transformative approach to integrating gender into research in development In this case study WorldFish and The Nature Conservancy have documented emerging lessons gaps and opportunities to better understand how gender equitable approaches can be taken into account in community based resource management
